

Homeless Solutions again shows its value

What is now called Homeless Solutions began more than 20 years ago running a shelter in a church basement in Morristown. That was a valuable service, but over time, the non-profit organization has expanded its role. Now, it not only runs a homeless shelter in Morris Township, it works to provide affordable or transitional housing for needy people.

The latest such home was christened last week in Morristown. It is a refurbished structure on Harrison Street that was built more than 100 years ago. It will house four people and boasts such energy efficient measures as radiant heat installed under bamboo floors and solar panels on the roof.

The work of Homeless Solutions is extremely valuable, especially in an affluent county like Morris, where affordable housing can be scarce. The agency says that the Morristown home makes 39 affordable units developed by Homeless Solutions in the past 10 years. We hope it does not take another 10 years to get to 100.
